

Lesson 4: Army Uniform

Activity 1: Read and learn the text

Army Uniform

Most nations traditionally have three basic types of uniform- one for parade or dress events, one for everyday work in the barracks or offices and one for combat or field training conditions. The military people usually wear single-color well-ironed trousers, shirts and ties, shoes and a peaked cap every day. Besides peaked-caps, berets are very popular in the world of uniform. Different colors of berets and different badges on them can tell you the nation, the arm of service and the name of the military unit.

Parade or dress uniform is usually designed to create an impressive atmosphere. Polished shoes, bright colors, tunic with golden epaulettes and medal decorations on it are definitely striking.

The most significant feature of a modern uniform is camouflage materials. Usually camouflage producers in different countries use three basic colors their combat uniform and these are green, brown and yellow. The combat uniform usually includes many accessories because a soldier needs a lot of things to fight with. Also it is supposed to be comfortable and easy to put on and take off for soldiers.
